Our Order Process

How our order is process from factory to the final production output of the items.

1

Receiving Fabric:

- Fabric is received from suppliers or through direct imports.
- Each fabric is inspected for quality and quantity upon arrival.
- Fabric is sorted and organized based on type, color, and design.

2

Preparing for Cutting:

- Fabric rolls are sent to the cutting department.
- Cutting patterns are created based on the design specifications.
- Fabric is laid out according to the cutting patterns.
- Precision cutting machines cut the fabric into the required pieces.

3

Making Marker and Grading:

- After cutting, the pieces are arranged into markers, which optimize fabric usage.
- Grading may be done at this stage, where patterns are adjusted for different sizes if necessary.

4

Moving to Stitching Department:

- Cut fabric pieces are transported to the stitching department.
- Skilled seamstresses and tailors assemble the garments according to the design specifications.
- Quality checks are conducted throughout the stitching process to ensure accuracy and consistency.

5

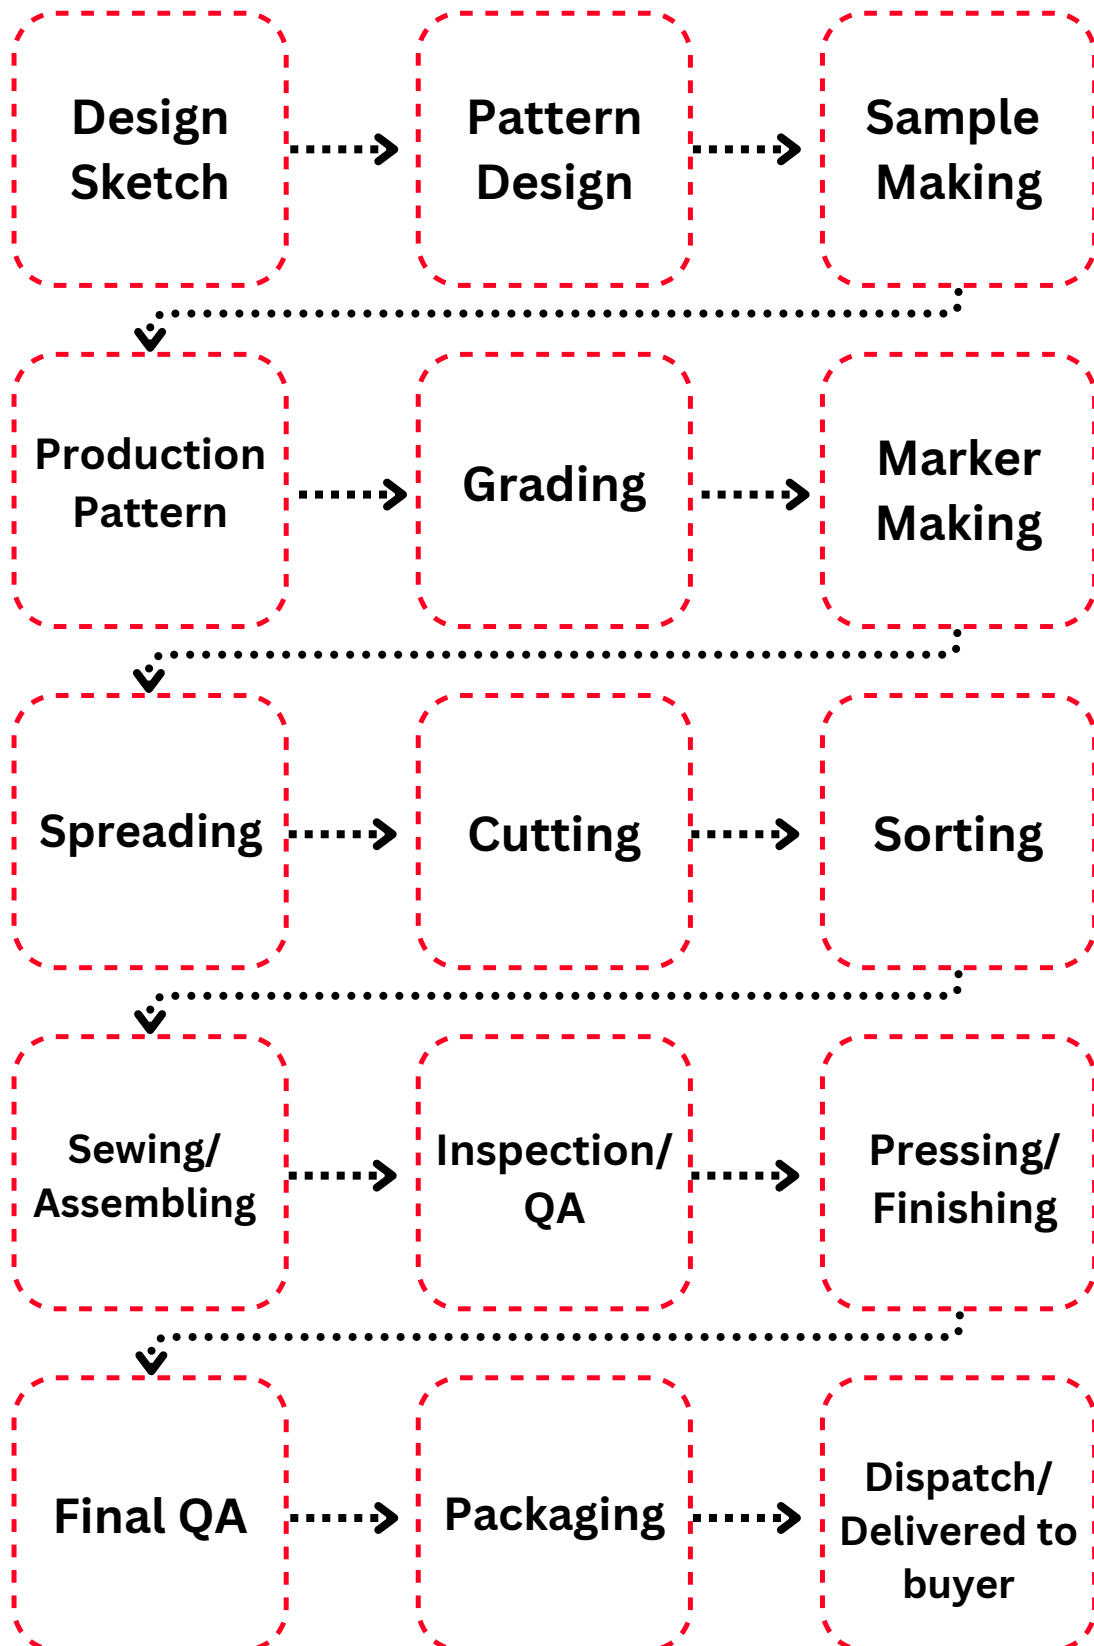

Final Stage - Packing and Delivery:

- Once stitched, garments undergo a final inspection for any defects or imperfections.
- Garments are then carefully packed, either individually or in bulk, based on client requirements.
- Packed garments are labeled and prepared for delivery.
- Orders are dispatched to stores or directly to clients, ensuring timely delivery and customer satisfaction.
